It shall be the duty of every person, before offering for sale or selling an oil-burner or oil-burning equipment, to file with the Fire Marshal a statement showing the name of the manufacturer and the trade-name thereof, together with a certificate of approval if any has been obtained from an authority acceptable to the Fire Marshal, and any other information the Fire Marshal may require.

4. The Fire Marshal may at his discretion require that any oil-burner or any oil-burning equipment be submitted to the Laboratories of the National Research Council of Canada for approval before his approval is given. In the case of any dispute as to the safety of any oil-burner or oil-burning equipment the decision of the said Laboratories shall be final.

5. No oil-burner or oil-burning equipment shall be installed without first obtaining a permit in writing from an officer. Every application for such permit shall be in writing and shall show the trade-name of the oil-burner or oil-burning equipment and the name and qualification of the person installing it.

6. It shall be the duty of the owner or occupier of every premises where an oil-burner is in use to notify the person supplying oil-fuel for use therein of the correct grade of oil fuel for which the burner is approved; and no person shall supply for use in any oil-burner oil fuel of a grade other than that for which the oil-burner has been approved. No person shall supply for use or use any crank-case oil as oil fuel in any oil-burner.

INSTALLATION OF TANKS, PIPING, ETC., FOR COMMERCIAL OIL-BURNERS.

7. (a.) All storage-tanks used in connection with oil-burners shall be buried underground, except as otherwise provided by clause (c) of this regulation, and shall be so buried that the top of the tank is not less than three feet below the surface of the ground. All tanks which are designed for or are used as underground storage for oil fuel shall be made of galvanized steel, open-hearth steel, or wrought iron, and shall have the seams thereof riveted and caulked, braze-welded, or electro-welded in such a manner that the seam-joint shall be mechanically and hydraulically tight. All such tanks shall be made rust-proof by being dipped in or painted with at least one thick coat of asphaltum or other rust-resisting paint.

Nothing in this regulation shall be construed to prohibit the use, for the storage of oil fuel having a specific gravity heavier than thirty-five degrees Baumé, of water-proofed reinforced-concrete tanks the plans and specifications of which have been submitted to the Fire Marshal for approval and have been approved by him.

The weight of metal used in the construction of metallic tanks for underground storage shall be based upon the following table:—

Capacity in Gallons.	Minimum Thickness of Metal, British Standard Gauge.	Minimum Weight per Square Foot.	Maximum Diameter in Inches.	Maximum Length of Cylinder in Feet.
1 to 467	14	3.125	54	10
468 to 917	12	4.375	68	12
918 to 3,333	7	7.50	105	18
3,334 to 10,000	5/16	10.00	132	24
10,001 to 16,667	3/8	12.50	132	30
16,668 to 25,000	3/8	15.00	132	35

(b.) Wherever practicable, tanks shall be located underground and not less than four feet from any building. Where this is impracticable the capacity of each tank shall depend on the location of the tank with respect to the adjacent building. If the top of the tank is underground and below the level of the lowest floor, basement, pit, or cellar of the building, it shall be located not less than four feet from the building; and the maximum capacity shall be based upon the following table:—

Distance from Building, Feet.	Capacity, Gallons.
4 to 6 (inclusive)	2,600
7 to 10 (inclusive)	4,000
11 to 20 (inclusive)	10,000
21 to 25 (inclusive)	50,000
26 to 49 (inclusive)	100,000

If the top of the tank is above the lowest floor, basement, pit, or cellar of the building, it shall be located not less than eight feet from the building; and the maximum capacity shall be based upon the following table:—

Distance from Building, Feet.	Capacity, Gallons.
8 to 12 (inclusive)	2,600
13 to 20 (inclusive)	4,000
21 to 40 (inclusive)	10,000
41 to 49 (inclusive)	50,000
50 feet and over	100,000

(c.) Wherever practicable, tanks shall be installed as shown above. When it is impracticable so to install them, they may be installed as follows:—

- (1.) Under the building, so buried that there is not less than two feet of earth between the top of the tank and the under-side of the four-inch concrete slab floor of the building. If there is no concrete slab floor, a protecting slab of concrete not less than four inches thick shall extend one foot beyond the tank on all sides.
- (2.) Outside or inside the basement of the building, enclosed in a concrete vault having concrete sides of not less than eight inches in thickness placed not less than twelve inches away from all parts of the tank to be enclosed and carried not less than one foot above the tank. The enclosure to be covered by a reinforced-concrete slab not less than six inches in thickness. All spaces around the tank shall be completely filled with sand securely tamped into place. The capacity of the tank so installed shall in no case exceed seven hundred and fifty gallons.

(d.) No tank for the storage of oil fuel shall be covered in or buried before it and all its fittings have been inspected and approved by an officer, and oil fuel shall not be stored therein until a certificate of approval is granted by the said officer.

(e.) No tank for the storage of oil fuel shall be located under any driveway, unless protected by a reinforced-concrete slab or other equivalent method of resisting the downward pressure to which it may from time to time be subjected.

(f.) The piping in connection with every tank shall be done in a neat workmanlike manner. Approved fittings shall be used to connect all piping to the tank. Unions shall be of a self-sealing type or of a type using an insoluble packing. The use of right and left couplings, running threads, and lock-nuts shall not be permitted. All joints shall be painted with a heavy coat of rust-resisting lead paint mixed with glycerine before putting them together. Measurement test-pipes shall be located outside of buildings, otherwise an approved indicating device shall be installed.

The fill-pipe for any tank shall not extend higher above the top of the tank than is necessary for filling purposes. The number of turns or offsets in any fill-pipe shall not exceed in value three right-angle bends.

The top of the fill-pipe shall be covered with an approved cap and the location of fill-pipe shall be subject to the approval of the officer, but in every case shall be located outside the building.

Where more than one tank is used on the same installation there shall be a separate fill-pipe for each tank and there shall be no interconnection which will permit the flow of oil fuel from one tank to another.

Every tank shall have a galvanized-iron vent-pipe having an internal diameter of not less than the following:—

Capacity of Tank, Gallons.	Diameter of Pipe, Inches.
1 to 3,000	1 1/4
3,001 to 10,000	1 1/2
10,001 and over	2

The vent-pipe shall extend into the tank not more than one inch and shall be installed so that there shall be a general drain-back towards the tank and no trap or sag throughout the length thereof. The upper end of the vent-pipe shall be not less than twelve feet above the ground-level and shall be fitted with a return elbow. The vent-pipe shall not terminate within three feet either way from any window or door.

Where any tank is located so that the top of the tank is above the level of the oil-burner, an approved anti-siphoning device shall be installed in the highest point of the piping. One such device shall be installed for each ten feet or fraction thereof of the difference in level. If more than one is required the anti-siphoning devices shall be connected in series.

In all cases where oil fuel is delivered to oil-burners by means of pumping devices there shall be a return overflow-pipe which in no case shall be less than one-quarter inch greater in internal diameter than the supply-pipe; provided, however, that in the case of vacuum oil-burning equipment the Fire Marshal may in writing waive the installation of the overflow-pipe.

No measuring-gauge or other device which is constructed wholly or partly of glass shall be installed on the pressure side of any oil-fuel pump or on the suction side of any oil-fuel pump below the elevation of the top of the storage or supply tank.

Between the storage-tank and the oil-burner an easily accessible strainer unit shall be installed.

No gravity-tank and no oil-burner to which oil fuel is supplied by gravity-flow shall be installed in any building any part of which is used as an apartment-house, hotel, school, hospital, place of refuge or detention, theatre or other place of public assembly, or in a department store, or in any building built over any tidal water or any navigable stream or lake: Provided that the foregoing provision shall not prohibit the demonstration of an oil-burner in a department store under conditions approved in writing by the Fire Marshal.

All piping connecting any oil-burner with the tank shall be adequately protected from the direct heat of the oil-burner.

All piping from any storage-tank shall be brought out from the top of the tank except the piping for gravity-feed oil-burners.

The installation of the piping in all oil-burning equipment shall be made so that the piping is protected from mechanical injury while also being easily accessible. Underground piping shall be laid on firm ground in a trench in which there is no other piping except piping used to conduct warm water or steam to heat the storage-tank.

(g.) Heating of storage-tanks shall be done by steam or hot-water heaters only, which shall be of substantial construction having all joints steam and oil tight. Heaters shall be provided with pressure relief-valves or by-passed, so that in no case can the temperature be raised above 120 degrees Fahr.

INSTALLATION OF COMMERCIAL OIL-BURNERS.

8. (a.) The burner mechanism shall be so designed that the orifice cannot become enlarged and so that the needle-valve cannot be unscrewed and removed after the oil-burner is in operation.

The burner mechanism shall be mounted securely in such a manner that no weight is taken by the piping or wiring.

An inspection opening not less than two inches in diameter so located as to give a view of the interior of the combustion-chamber shall be provided. Every inspection opening shall have a cover.

The burner mechanism shall be capable of being easily cleaned and adjusted, and shall be so designed that oil leakage shall be at a minimum.

A manually operated shut-off valve shall be located on the oil-fuel feed-line close to the burner mechanism.

(b.) No oil-burner shall be installed in connection with any hot-air furnace hot-water or steam boiler unless the furnace or boiler is mounted on an incombustible base; or, if on a wooden floor, unless the floor is protected by an incombustible covering not less than twelve inches in thickness, composed of one layer not less than two inches thick of concrete, over which shall be a layer of six-inch hollow tile laid in cement mortar in such a way that the ducts of the tile will form continuous air-spaces from end to end, and a third layer consisting of firebrick laid in fireclay. This floor-covering shall extend beyond the sides and ends of the furnace or boiler a distance of not less than eighteen inches.

(c.) Dampers which entirely close the chimney uptake are prohibited. Damper area shall be carefully determined in each case, but shall not be greater than eighty per centum of the internal cross-sectional area of the uptake.

(d.) The chimney into which the smoke-pipe from any oil-burner feeds shall have sufficient cross-sectional area and be of sufficient height to give adequate draught to ensure the proper operation of the oil-burner. The chimney shall be constructed in conformity with the regulations for the construction of chimneys made pursuant to the "Fire Marshal Act."

(e.) No oil-burner shall be used in connection with any heating plant in any public building unless the heating plant is enclosed in accordance with the regulations for furnace chambers made pursuant to the "Fire Marshal Act."

INSTALLATION OF TANKS, PIPING, ETC., FOR DOMESTIC OIL-BURNERS.

9. The provisions hereinbefore laid down in Regulation 7 for commercial oil-burners shall apply in the case of domestic oil-burners, together with the following provisions:—

(a.) No gravity-tank from which the oil fuel is fed to any domestic oil-burner shall have a capacity of more than fifty-five gallons. Not more than one such tank shall be connected to any domestic oil-burner.

(b.) No gravity-tank shall be constructed of less than 14-gauge metal (B.S.G.), which shall be either double-galvanized or kept well coated with rust-resisting paint.

(c.) The piping from a gravity-tank to a domestic oil-burner shall have an internal diameter not less than one-quarter inch and not greater than one-half inch. The other piping in connection with gravity-tanks shall be as hereinbefore laid down for underground tanks.

(d.) Every gravity-tank shall be located not less than ten feet from any stove, furnace, boiler, or other heat-radiating device and at a height of not more than thirty-six inches above the level of the oil-burner to which it is attached. The gravity-tank shall be located in the lowest story of the building.

(e.) The stand upon which a gravity-tank is mounted shall be made of galvanized-iron pipe and fittings of not less than one inch internal diameter, and shall be securely fastened to the floor, ceiling, and walls or floor and ceiling of the building.

(f.) Oil fuel shall be pumped from the storage tank to the gravity-tank. The pump shall be so mounted as to prevent siphoning either way.

INSTALLATION OF DOMESTIC OIL-BURNERS.

10. (a.) Gravity-feed oil-burning equipment shall not be installed in any building housing apartments or in any hotel, school, theatre, department store, store, place of amusement, public assembly, or detention.

(b.) Every domestic oil-burner used in connection with any steam, hot-water, or warm-air heating system shall be equipped with an automatic shut-off stopping the flow of oil fuel from the storage or supply tank to the oil-burner in case the flame should go out or oil-flow become too rapid for flame-consumption. It shall also be equipped with an approved limiting device to prevent abnormal temperatures in hot-air furnace ducts, abnormal water temperature in a hot-water furnace, and abnormal steam-pressure in a steam-boiler.

(c.) Domestic oil-burners shall be connected to chimneys which shall comply in every respect with the regulations made pursuant to the "Fire Marshal Act" governing the construction of chimneys.

INSTALLATION OF RANGE OIL-BURNERS.

11. The following general provisions shall apply in respect of the installation and maintenance of range oil-burners:—

(a.) No range oil-burner shall be installed in any building housing apartments, or in any hotel, school, hospital, theatre, department store, store over two stories in height, place of public assembly, amusement, or detention, building used for the storage of volatile inflammable liquids, mattress-factory, furniture-factory, wood-working factory, or in any building used for the storage of rags, excelsior, hair, or other similar combustible material, or in any building over tidal or navigable water; nor shall a range oil-burner be installed above the ground floor of any building, except under special circumstances approved by the Fire Marshal.

(b.) Every range oil-burner shall bear the approval of the National Research Council of Canada, and no range oil-burner shall be installed, operated, or used unless the oil fuel used therein is of a specific gravity and specification approved for use therein by the National Research Council of Canada.

(c.) Positive bottom ventilation and adequate air-supply shall be provided by permanently securing the air-regulating-device on the front of the range or furnace to which the range oil-burner is attached in an open position; and all smoke-pipes, flues, and flue-passages shall be thoroughly cleaned before the range oil-burner is installed. No smoke-pipe damper which cuts off more than eighty per centum of the smoke-pipe area shall be installed or maintained.

(d.) All cracks, chinks, and other openings in the combustion-chamber of the range or furnace shall be sealed with fireclay in such a manner that there is no opening connecting therewith except those leading to the ventilation air-supply, the smoke-pipe, and the oil-fuel feed-line.

(e.) The clear distance between the smoke-pipe and any woodwork or other combustible construction shall in no case be less than nine inches, and the range or furnace shall be so set that no woodwork or other combustible construction will be exposed to temperatures sufficiently great to cause damage thereto.

(f.) All electrical devices used for preheating or igniting range oil-burners shall be installed in full compliance with The Canadian Electrical Code as adopted in the Province of British Columbia, with variations, under the provisions of the "Electrical Energy Inspection Act." No gasoline or other highly volatile inflammable liquid shall be used for priming a range oil-burner, and only the device supplied by the manufacturer of the range oil-burner shall be used for igniting it.

(g.) A card with complete instructions for the operation of the range oil-burner printed thereon in legible type shall be posted up in a conspicuous place near each range oil-burner.

12. The following special provisions shall apply in respect of the installation of range oil-burners for use in ranges:—

(a.) In case of vacuum-control feed, the supply-tank shall not exceed three gallons in capacity, and shall be equipped with a positive indicating device which shows clearly at all times the amount of oil fuel in the tank; and in all other cases the supply-tank shall not exceed six gallons in capacity. The supply-tank shall be so mounted as to present a rigid structure capable of withstanding external shocks and ordinary service abuse. After the first day of August, 1934, no supply-tank shall be installed or used unless it is constructed of metal of not less than 24-gauge (B.S.G.). The supply-tank shall be located not less than two feet from the range and not less than three feet from the flame in the range. Every supply-tank of the gravity-feed type shall be equipped with a close-fitting lid which has an overlap of not less than three-quarters of an inch all around, and which has a breather-hole of not less than one-thirty-second of an inch in diameter located at or near the centre of the lid.

(b.) The oil-fuel feed-line shall enter the range through a hole drilled in the casing, and shall be of copper or brass tubing of not less than five-sixteenths of an inch outside diameter and having a wall thickness of not less than forty-nine one-thousandths of an inch, or of standard full-weight galvanized iron, steel, or brass pipe of not less than one-quarter of an inch or more than one-half of an inch inside diameter. The tubing or piping shall be installed in a rigid manner sufficient to withstand external shocks and ordinary service abuse. In case of vacuum-control feed, there shall be a control-valve located at a level not less than one inch below the level of the burner base and not less than one inch below the level of the supply-tank; and in all other cases there shall be a constant-level control-valve of an approved type installed in such a manner as to maintain the required level of the oil fuel in the burner base. In all cases the control-valve shall be rigidly supported in a manner that will not cause strain to be put on the oil-fuel feed-line.

(c.) The oil-burner base shall be made and rigidly set at the proper level by reinforcing the bottom of the range by a piece of sheet metal not less than eight inches wide, ten inches long, and one-eighth of an inch thick, held in position by the burner pedestal bolts which shall be secured in place by means of lock-nuts. In the case of vacuum-control feed, the oil-fuel flow-level shall be such as will permit the control-valve to be opened and the flow to continue at full capacity for twenty minutes without overflowing or flooding the combustion chamber. When the proper level is ascertained by adjusting the oil-burner base and the supply-tank, the base and tank shall be securely set and locked in position.

(d.) No range oil-burner installation shall be deemed to be complete unless an oil storage-tank has been installed therefor in full compliance with the provisions of clause (f) of Regulation 13.

13. The following special provisions shall apply in respect of the installation of range oil-burners for use in furnaces:—

(a.) Not more than three range oil-burners shall be installed in any furnace.

(b.) In case of vacuum-control feed, the supply-tanks connected to the range oil-burners in any furnace shall not exceed two in number, nor shall a supply-tank exceed three gallons in capacity; and in all other cases the supply-tank shall not exceed fifty-five gallons in capacity.

(c.) Every supply-tank having a capacity of more than six gallons shall be installed on an incombustible stand not less than one foot and not more than three feet from the floor, and not less than ten feet from the furnace. The tank shall be made of sheet metal of not less than No. 14 B.S.G. and shall have all seams riveted and caulked, brazed or electrically welded in such a manner as to be mechanically and hydraulically tight. The tank shall be equipped with an outside vent-pipe of galvanized iron of not less than three-quarters of an inch inside diameter, which shall rise to a height of not less than twelve feet above the ground-level and shall be equipped with a return bend. The opening for filling shall be in the top of the supply-tank and shall be equipped with a screw-plug which shall, except when the tank is being filled, be kept screwed into the opening. Where oil fuel is filled into the supply-tank from a tank wagon it shall be done by means of a hose equipped with an automatic shut-off nozzle so adjusted that when the operator's hand is removed the flow of liquid will immediately be cut off. Where the oil fuel is delivered in drums the liquid shall be pumped from the drum to the supply-tank by means of an approved pump. No oil fuel shall be delivered to any such supply-tank by means of open can or bucket.

(d.) The constant-level control-valve shall be mounted at or near the furnace on a pedestal from the floor or on brackets from the furnace in such a manner as to be rigid and to withstand external shocks and ordinary service abuse.

(e.) The oil-fuel feed-line from the supply-tank to the constant-level control-valve shall be of standard full-weight galvanized iron or brass pipe of not less than one-quarter of an inch or more than one-half of an inch inside diameter, and shall have a positive shut-off valve at the supply-tank and an approved strainer at or near the constant-level control-valve. The oil-fuel feed-line from the constant-level control-valve to the oil-burner may be either of standard full-weight galvanized iron or brass pipe of not less than one-quarter and not more than one-half of an inch inside diameter, or of brass or copper tubing of not less than five-sixteenths of an inch outside diameter and having a wall thickness of not less than forty-nine one-thousandths of an inch, and shall enter the furnace through a hole drilled in the casing.

(f.) No inside storage-tank shall be located above the lowest floor of any building, nor shall any inside storage-tank exceed fifty-five gallons in capacity. Where delivery of oil fuel is made in a drum or steel barrel, the drum or barrel may be used for storage purposes. Where delivery of oil fuel is made by tank wagon, the storage-tank shall conform in all respects to the requirements laid down in clause (c) of this regulation respecting supply-tanks. For the purpose of transferring oil fuel from the storage-tank, drum, or barrel to the supply-tank an approved pump shall be used. No faucet, spigot, or other gravity device and no siphon shall be installed or used for the purpose of withdrawing oil fuel from the storage-tank, drum, or barrel.

PROHIBITION OF THE SALE OR USE OF APPLIANCES USING CERTAIN INFLAMMABLE LIQUIDS AS FUEL.

14. No person shall sell, offer for sale, install, operate, or use any range, as defined in Regulation 1, which uses for the purpose of generating heat any inflammable liquid having a flash-point of less than 100 degrees Fahr.

31. No act, order, or regulation of the Marketing Board shall be held or deemed to be invalid, nor shall any act of the Marketing Board be restrained by injunction or otherwise, by reason only of any irregularity or defect in the election or appointment of the Marketing Board or any member thereof, or in the proceedings of the Marketing Board, if, in the opinion of the Judge or Court or other tribunal before whom the matter may come for consideration, there has been a substantial compliance with the provisions governing the election or appointment of the Marketing Board or governing such proceedings notwithstanding such irregularity or defect.

- (j.) The majority required shall be such as will be satisfactory to the Provincial Board.

be in the manner set forth in section 34: Provided that no further registration of producers shall be required in connection with such poll, but those entitled to vote at such poll shall be such producers as are registered in the Register of Producers at the time such poll is required.

Relation to "Milk Act."

36. The powers conferred on the Marketing Board by this scheme and any orders or regulations made thereunder shall have effect only in so far as they are not repugnant to the provisions of the "Milk Act," being chapter 42, Statutes of British Columbia, 1926-27, and regulations thereunder.

Scheme under the "Natural Products Marketing Act, 1934."

37. A scheme under the "Natural Products Marketing Act, 1934," 24 & 25 George V., chapter 57, is contemplated in respect of the regulated product, and it is proposed that the Marketing Board shall be comprised of the same personnel as the Local Board under the said "Natural Products Marketing Act, 1934," and shall co-operate and act as agent of the Local Board to the fullest extent possible to attain the purpose of the scheme and as duly authorized.
